AgingParents.com, A Professional Advice Source For Families

Who We Are:

A nurse-lawyer, psychologist team offering healthcare, legal and mental health guidance for families of elders. We're at AgingParents.com, Carolyn L. Rosenblatt, RN, Elder Law Attorney and Dr. Mikol Davis, geriatric psychologist.

What We Do:

We engage with families who have a mixture of issues with their aging loved ones, answering questions, providing guidance and reducing your stress by empowering you with information and tools.

When there are disagreements among family members, we offer family meetings with our independent guidance and expertise to help you reach written working agreements.

How Our Services Work:

When you are feeling overwhelmed with the things that arise from changes and crises with aging parents, you contact AgingParents.com and let us know about the problems by filling out a very short "contact us" form. We call you within 24 hours and listen carefully to the specific challenges. When we determine that we can help, we offer you an advice package. You pay by credit card and we schedule your appointment. The minimum is two hours, total, to be used over a two-month period. We give you direction, information and action steps in advice sessions by zoom, phone or in person. You can do this on your own or with other family members who wish to participate.

Problems We Can Help Resolve:

Some examples of issues we've helped families address are

- crisis intervention and management
- questions about an aging parent's capacity to make important decisions
- whether an elder is safer at home or in a care community
- understanding the meaning of aging parents' legal documents
- what legal rights an aging parent has and what rights family members have
- whether the aging parent's memory loss is dementia and what to do next
- what level of healthcare is needed and how to navigate the healthcare system
- family members at war with each other and how to avoid going to court
- what to do when you suspect or see financial abuse

How you can benefit from AgingParents.com's services:

If you are feeling stuck, at an impasse with anyone in your family, stressed out or confused about choices that must be made, we can reduce that stress. Often times knowledge is power and we can help you so you can be the hero in your life. Sometimes you just need some support to be confident that you're doing the right thing. We provide that. Finally, when a family fight gets out of control, it can lead to lawsuits and destruction of all relationships. We can help families prevent disputes from escalating. In all, our skill sets can save you time, money and aggravation.
